ATTEMPTED TRAIN WRECK NEAR COLLEGE STATION.

Last Friday morning Houston & Texas Central extra freight train No. 32, going south, found heavy railroad ties piled on the track about two miles south of College Station, near the Graham place, at mile post 92, but stopped in time to prevent a wreck. After removing the obstruction the train continued the journey to Houston and telephoned back to Sheriff Conlee of the incident, giving the description of a negro seen hanging around the place. Yesterday Mr. Conlee went to the scene and after investigating the case arrested Will Hamilton, a negro, and lodged him in jail. A case similar to this was disposed of in the district court last week.

How Atlanta Youngsters Celebrate Easter.

The annual egg hunt at Atlanta, Ga., is another unique celebration, instituted by the authorities of that city several years ago, for the delectation of its juvenile population. On the Saturday before Easter, Grant Park, one of the city's most popular breathing places, is closed to the public and in the shrubbery and grass are hidden some 40,000 or 50,000 candy eggs, one of which is gilded. At noon on Easter day, when the band strikes up "Dixie," the throngs of waiting youngsters are admitted and the hunt for the eggs begins. The fortunate finder of the gilded egg is presented by the city with a goat, harness and wagon as a prize. The eagerness with which the children prosecute their search is a source of infinite amusement to their grown-up guardians who accompany them and there is a concerted rush for drinking fountains and refreshment stands when the hunt is over.—Charles A. Brasser, on "Quaint Easter Customs" in April Columbian.
